Reply Made to Criticisms

Commission Asks Start On New Youth Court

New York, Aug. 20 (AP)—A plea to go ahead with New York state's much-criticized new Youth Court act has been issued by the temporary state commission on the courts.

Frederick Van Pelt Bryan, commission counsel, said yesterday.

"The clock should not be turned back so that we are left where we started in dealing with youth crime on a piecemeal and ineffective basis."

The law, enacted this year to take effect Feb. 1, 1957, establishes a state-wide system of special courts to deal with offenders 16 to 20 years old, with emphasis on rehabilitation.

It has been criticized by some state judges, who claim the system would be impractical and too costly.

Shorter Courses May Be Solution

Stillwater, Okla., Aug. 20 (AP)—What's the answer to the rise of enrollment in American colleges? It may be a streamlined program, including a three-year course and class hours of 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Those are a couple of ways in which 60 deans of liberal arts schools meeting at Oklahoma A&M saw the college of the future handling the increase in students.

The educators felt that time and space must be used more effectively if the colleges are to meet the tremendous challenge imposed by an estimated double enrollment within 10 years.

The deans, representing college presidents, said that the state of Oklahoma has agreed to seek postponement of the effective date of the law.

Bryan said attacks on the statute were "largely based on misconceptions" that overlooked the failure of present methods to deal with juvenile crime.

He added, however, that the measure could be made "more workable" with certain changes, and that such amendments will be sought in the 1957 legislature.

He said the law merely extends to persons 19 and 20 years old the same provision that have covered those 16 through 18 for the last 10 years.

It provides for handling their

Stevenson Approves Big Tour To Every Key State in Nation

Libertyville, Ill., Aug. 20 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson gave enthusiastic approval today to an air-plane and "whistlestop" train campaign embracing virtually every key state in the country.

He booked time Sept. 13 for a 30-minute, nationwide television address in a drive that will continue without letup until the eve of the election. And it will cover full participation by former President Harry S. Truman and Sen. Estes Kefauver, Stevenson's vice presidential running mate.

Stevenson's campaign manager, James A. Finnegan, Philadelphia political pro, outlined these plans, still being formulated, as he conferred with the nominee at his sheep farm home near here.

There also was no formal confirmation here as yet of reports that Stevenson will make an even earlier campaign opener with a non-televized Labor Day address at Detroit. There were reports, also unconfirmed, that Stevenson might speak in New York and Los Angeles, prior to his major TV opener.

Georgia Bitter on Estes May Lag on Party Support

Atlanta, Aug. 20 (AP)—Georgia is the only state among the 48 which has never gone Republican in a presidential election. But support of the Democratic ticket of Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver will be something less than wholehearted this year, says Gov. Marvin Griffin.

"I'll support the Democratic ticket, but I will not say how actively," Griffin said after his return from the Chicago convention.

Kefauver, a Tennessee senator who is too liberal to suit a lot of southerners, particularly on civil rights matters, is the bitter part of the pill.

Griffin, in a television interview yesterday termed the tall Tennesseean "an albatross around the neck" of Stevenson.

The Georgia governor labeled Stevenson "the best man" of all candidates placed before the convention as a candidate for president. Georgia, of course, cast its 32 votes for favorite son James C. Davis, congressman from the 5th district. But that strictly was a move to enable Griffin to get to the speaker's stand to register a protest against failure of Speaker Sam Rayburn to recognize him when he wanted to speak against the civil rights plank of the Democratic platform.

If Kefauver isn't a good running mate for Stevenson, who would be, in Griffin's opinion?

"Just about anybody else," the governor replied.

Kefauver's nomination wasn't the only unpleasant dose Griffin, and other pro-segregationists in the state, took today.

Tydings Quits Comeback Race

Tydings, who was out to regain the seat he held for 24 years before Butler defeated him in a controversial 1950 race, announced last night he was quitting.

Now 66, the tall, spare veteran of clashes with the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wisc.) has been suffering from a severe case of shingles.

His successor is expected to be named Wednesday night.

N. Y. Delegates Seem Solidly Back of Nixon

San Francisco, Aug. 20 (AP)—New York's delegates appeared solidly behind Vice President Nixon for renomination today at the opening session of the Republican convention.

They greeted him warmly when he appeared with his wife at a delegation reception last night in the Rose Room of the Sheraton-Palace Hotel.

L. Judson Morhouse, delegation chairman, said the New Yorkers reaffirmed at a meeting earlier last night the Nixon support they originally voted in Albany June 28.

No formal vote was taken at the session here, but Morhouse was applauded during a speech when he mentioned the Albany action. He told newsmen that the lack of dissent constituted reaffirmation.

Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey told the closed meeting the Republicans could expect all the mud the Democrats could dig up between Illinois and Tennessee, and Missouri.

This was a reference to the home states of Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, the Democrats.

No New Ideas in Planks

Platforms of Both Parties Similar on Foreign Policy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

San Francisco, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Democratic and Republican platforms—those promises of what they'll do if the voters elect them—are a combination of good intentions and plain political bunk.

The prime example: Their planks on foreign policy. The rarest thing in a political platform is a new idea. You won't find a single one in the two parties' foreign policy planks if you search them from end to end.

With perhaps one main exception—arms for Israel—you will find no real difference between the parties' foreign policies.

From 1933 to 1953, while they ran the show, the Democrats put together a number of basic

Shooting War Seen As Fading Expect Majority To Back Dulles

London, Aug. 20 (AP)—The 22-nation Suez conference reached a showdown stage today with Egypt and the west still miles apart. But some delegates said the danger of a shooting war is fading.

INDIA'S V. K. Krishna Menon drew up a climactic compromise bid with the hope of bringing the west and Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser together.

This afternoon's session was delayed 45 minutes while U. S. Secretary of State Dulles met with Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov, presumably to fill him in on the west's firm stand for an international authority to operate the canal.

THIS EGYPT has already rejected. In a merry-go-round of last minute diplomatic developments before the roll is taken, there were indications the document which would emerge from the conference would contain a variety of viewpoints but with a majority of the delegates supporting the Dulles plan.

Whatever the immediate outcome of the conference, one high western official said he is convinced military action in the Mediterranean is now remote. He said Prime Minister Anthony Eden is now thinking in terms of moral rather than military persuasion.

Menon, it was reported, has been unable to sell his compromise plan completely to either side.

MENON'S compromise plan calls for a two-tier system of managing the canal. At the top would be an Egyptian directorate and underneath an international body, including foreign users of the canal.

While the Egyptian director-

New Stone Ridge Fire Call Numbers Given

It was announced today by the Rev. David W. Arnold that the new fire alarm system for Stone Ridge area was expected to be completed by noon.

Father Arnold, chief of the Stone Ridge Fire Department, said the completion deadline was promised by the New York Telephone Co., which is installing equipment.

New numbers for fire calls, day or night, are High Falls 4881, 4496 and 5531, Chief Arnold said.

Most of Nation Gets Cool Wave

August gave the area true, deep-summer temperatures from Friday through Sunday, but today turned much cooler as a rush of cool air spread over most of the nation.

Saturday's 96 was the high temperature for the month here as reported by the city engineer's office. It came at 3:30 p. m. Friday the mercury reached 94 at 2:25 p. m., and Sunday the cooler trend was noted with a high of only 90 at 1:45 p. m.

From yesterday's high the mercury dropped to 64 at 6 a. m. today, and the cooler air, the weather bureau noted, spread over all but the desert southwest and the Gulf states.

The cool air, the Associated Press reported, extended as far south as Texas, and in Virginia the low was reported in the 30's in some areas.

Scattered heavy rains fell in the southern plains and the central Rocky mountain region, but skies were clear from the northern and central plains eastward across the great lakes to New England.

Locally, Saturday's 96 was no record for the summer. Temperature of slightly over 100 degrees were reported in June, and July had a few days in the high nineties.

The forecast in eastern New York state from 7:30 p. m. today to 7:30 p. m. Saturday, is mostly cool, dry weather with temperatures averaging from two to five degrees below normal.

Must Free Prisoners First

President Agrees Ban On Passports Be Kept

Washington, Aug. 20 (AP)—President Eisenhower today gave his "full concurrence" to a state department policy of refusing to grant valid passports to newsmen who are going to visit Red China despite the department's refusal to issue them passports valid for travel on the Chinese mainland.

Read added the department has "no information" to confirm a New York Times dispatch from Hong Kong which reported today that four American newsmen were planning to enter Communist China Thursday.

In its Aug. 7 statement, the department noted that some American newsmen had been invited by the Peking regime to visit Communist China. The state department promptly turned thumbs down on allowing them to go.

The department said that after a careful review it had decided to continue a ban on granting passports good for travel to Red China, even to newsmen.

It gave as its reason Red China's delay in freeing Americans now in jail, in violation of a previous pledge to allow them to go home quickly.

Press officer Joseph Reap who read today's announcement said Hoover talked this matter over with Eisenhower on Saturday.

Answering questions, Reap said, "We are not aware of any newsmen who are going" to visit Red China despite the department's refusal to issue them passports valid for travel on the Chinese mainland.

Riesel Says Gang War Is Beginning

New York, Aug. 20 (AP)—Labor columnist Victor Riesel says the slaying of a truck driver Saturday is another link in a chain of underworld murders that have followed his blinding by acid.

The murders are "indicative of a terrific gang war which is just beginning in New York and will soon spread across the nation," Riesel said in a brief television appearance last night (NBC—Steve Allen Show).

Riesel, blinded by an acid-flinging hoodlum April 5, referred to the killing Saturday of Fred Mischner, 26. The truck driver was found with four bullets in his body in a hallway of a lower east side tenement.

Police said, however, that (Continued on Page 9, Col. 6)

Gov. Harriman Would Change Niagara River Application

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP)—Gov. Harriman has called for changes in an application the New York Power Authority filed today in a new move to obtain permission to develop Niagara river power.

The governor said last night in a statement that he did not approve in its present form the application the authority had prepared for submission to the Federal Power Commission.

Harriman did not elaborate. But the governor's office issued simultaneously with his statement a second in which former Gov. Charles Poletti, Power Authority trustee, objected to application provisions regarding supply of power to the Niagara Mohawk Corp.

In New York city, Power Authority Chairman Robert Moses said there appeared to be "some misunderstanding" on the governor's part. Moses said the present application could be amended, or a subsequent one filed.

Moses said: "I see nothing to get excited about at this juncture. . . I assume that we all want prompt action without further delay to stop the loss and waste of our power."

The authority application said there "is now a power shortage in western New York" and that national defense required power (Continued on Page 9, Col. 7)

More Borrowing and Buying May Bring New Move to Curb Possible Inflation

Washington, Aug. 20 (AP)—Prospects of brisk economic activity this fall, with no letup in borrowing, buying and price boosts, raised speculation today that the Federal Reserve Board soon may take another step to curb possible inflation.

Such a move would entail another increase in the Federal Reserve discount rate—the interest rate the reserve banks charge on money they lend to member banks for commercial and personal loans.

As usual, there was no comment or indication from the Board itself whether another discount rate hike may be in the offing. However, another government source suggested "there are enough elements of inflationary nature on the horizon to point up the possibility, if not the likelihood, of another increase."

Among these elements this source cited the recent wage and price increases in the steel industry and the chance they may form a pattern for other rises.

President Eisenhower and other top administration officials have expressed concern over possible inflationary aspects of the steel-labor wage settlement and its aftermath, a price increase averaging $8.50 per ton.

Another new factor is the start of the multi-billion dollar highway building program, involving both immediate spending for construction and placement of huge future orders for steel and other construction materials. And employment, already at

Stassen Is Loser With Dump Dick Banners Announce Choice Is Clear

Cow Palace, San Francisco, Aug. 20 (AP)—Republicans, troubled by any major problems, plunged confidently today into a pageant-convention pitched to blunt Democratic attacks and win votes for reelection of an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

ANY EARLIER doubts in the minds of delegates that Richard M. Nixon would again be the running mate for President Eisenhower had been pretty well removed by the time they began coming into this big arena for the opening session of the party get together.

Harold E. Stassen had got no where with his weekend plugging here for delegates to join his "dump" Nixon crusade. He was about the loneliest man in town.

AND WORD to associates of Nixon was that Eisenhower would leave the track clear to him by taking no action, publicly or privately, to tab any list of others as equally acceptable to him.

Delegates saw, on coming into this hall, big 10-20-foot pictures of Eisenhower and Nixon at one end.

The nearest thing to a disagreement to crop up in the pre-convention preparations was some argument over a civil rights plank in the platform.

THIS WAS wrapped up early today with committee approval of a plank which—as happened with the Democrats—was not all that either side of the argument wanted, but seemed acceptable to both.

The wording was not immediately made public but was reported to say the party "accepts" as law of the land the Supreme Court's pronouncement that racial segregation in public schools is unconstitutional. Further, it was understood to approve the civil rights proposals submitted to Congress by President Eisenhower.

Sen. Prescott Bush of Connecticut, chairman of the drafting committee, told newsmen he thought the plank was stronger than the Democrats' plank and a "very satisfactory solution to a very difficult issue."

BY TONING down an earlier draft described as stronger, the GOP hoped to help Eisenhower repeat his 1952 feat of taking four southern states and also improve their bids to pick up congressional gains in border states.

In the absence of any real struggle over men or issues, the convention atmosphere took on somewhat that of a society wedding.

The principals were known in advance. So were the ceremonies. Nobody anticipated any surprises. Everybody was confident of a happy future.

LEADERS MAPPED a taut schedule for the floor activities, aimed to give those looking in on TV a bite-paced show than they got from the Democrats. For this, they had the aid of professional TV programmers.

This opening session, aside from getting the convention organized, made a pitch angled to election of a Republican Congress.

Picked as the main speakers were Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania and Sen. Andrew

To Get Rid of Stations
Utica, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad plans to sell or lease out part or all of more than 400 of its passenger stations, it was reported today. The Utica Observer-Dispatch said Utica's 42-year-old Union Station would be among those to be put up for sale or lease under competitive bidding. The newspaper said the Central would lease back—in the case of outright sales, or retain—where stations were leased out—those parts necessary to its operations. The stations in Buffalo and Toledo, Ohio, are among those to go on the block, the newspaper reported.

Fatally Injured
Mt. Morris, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP)—Howard E. Hoffman Jr., 24, of Nunda was fatally injured today when his automobile left the road, near here, overturned and landed in a ditch.

Acker Bus Gets School Contract

A contract for transportation of approximately 60 pupils of Emma Wygant School District No. 6, town of Ulster, over two routes for the school term 1956-57 has been awarded to Acker Bus Corp.

Mrs. Bertha Parker, a trustee, said the Acker bid was the only one submitted.

One of the routes starts in East Kingston, through Route 32 to Ulster Landing, Upper Flatbush, through Route 32 to Kingston High School.

The other starts at Terry's Woods, through Route 32 to East Kingston, to Ulster Landing, Carlson's Corners, up Route 32 and back down Route 32 to Emma Wygant School.

GOP Convention

Schoepfel of Kansas, heads of the House and Senate Campaign Committees.

THEIR ARGUMENT: Eisenhower needs a Republican Congress so his program will be supported with "whole-hearted cooperation" instead of being hampered by "partisan heckling."

GOP Chairman Leonard Hall got in a few shots at the Democrats in his prepared opening remarks.

"There is nothing," he gibed, "that we need say about Adlai Stevenson (that is) Kefauver hasn't already said. There is nothing that we need say about the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket that Harry Truman hasn't already said."

KEFAUVER SAID harsh things about Stevenson in primary struggles.

And Truman, before Stevenson finally won the Democratic presidential nomination, battled against giving it to him on grounds Stevenson "can't win."

Of course, Truman took it back after the nomination was settled.

Nixon, even though feeling confident of renomination, was getting in a little spade work with delegates.

IN A BREAKFAST talk before a friendly Minnesota delegation, the vice president said he has been asked whether he intended to campaign for renomination. He said he was delighted to call on various delegations but:

"As far as campaigning goes, I've done my campaigning in the past 3½ years."

After counselling delegates to examine his record, he declared the convention should select the most qualified man for his post.

Sen. William F. Knowland of California, who is supporting Nixon, told a news conference he did not believe Stassen has made "even a dent" with his dump-Nixon efforts.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 20 (AP)—The stock market drifted lower in the early afternoon in quiet dealings today.

Leading issues were off from fractions to around a point with an absence of any real selling pressure. Gains generally were held to minor fractions.

The market started mixed and then turned lower, continuing the gentle decline prevailing much of last week. Beyond signs of a further restraining of credit in Washington, there were few developments to influence investors.

Trading was estimated at around the same pace as Friday's total of 1,720,000 shares, lightest since July 2.

All major sections were on the downside except utilities which were mixed.

Off a point or more were Bethlehem, Anaconda, Santa Fe, and Union Carbide. United Aircraft declined about two points.

Commission Urges

cases "in a single, highly qualified court," he said.

In a "fact sheet," the commission gave this point-by-point reply to criticisms:

1. The act would not result in coddling youthful criminals. Those convicted of felonies or major crimes would go to regular criminal courts. Youth courts could impose sentences of up to five years.

2. "There is nothing in the youth court act which either limits or censors what newspapers may publish about a crime which has been committed by a youth or the names of those who are alleged to have committed it."

3. Large sums would not be required for new court rooms and jails. The act requires only that youth cases be heard at different times than adult cases. The present law requires that prisoners under 21 be kept apart from adult prisoners.

4. Additional expense would be imposed upon local governments for probation services, but the state has undertaken to pay half of the additional burden and has appropriated $300,000 for that purpose in the current fiscal year.

5. The commission is considering amendments to the act that would exclude from its provisions violations of local ordinances and of the vehicle and traffic law.

Small Still Serious

Alvah Small, 22, of Lake Hill, who was injured late Friday night when his car failed to make a turn at the Bearville bridge, was "apparently still serious" at Kingston Hospital today.

Mr. Small reportedly suffered a badly broken left arm, fractured jaw and kneecap, possible broken ribs and internal injuries and had some teeth knocked out. His automobile struck a large boulder and skidded into a tree, it was reported.

Justice of the Peace Harold E. Macholdt adjourned the case Friday afternoon at request of counsel. Mr. Snyder is represented by Attorney Arthur B. Ewig. Appearing for the district attorney's office was Louis D. Donna.

It is charged that Mr. Snyder subdivided lands in the Lucas avenue extension section without approval of the town board of the Ulster planning committee.

SMILING EISENHOWERS—President and Mrs. Eisenhower turn on the smiles in their auto after attending church services in Washington, D. C., Aug. 19. Later the White House denied a published newspaper report that the President may undergo another, non-urgent ileitis operation. (AP Wirephoto)

Still Using Old Smoky

Wichita, Kan. (AP)—"Old Smoky", a fire-scarred B-47 at Boeing Wichita plant, will never fly—but hundreds of B-47s are flying higher, faster and farther because of her. When fire destroyed a neighboring B-47 on the flight ramp more than three years ago, Old Smoky lost a wing tip and flames blackened and wrinkled the right side of her fuselage. Boeing engineers persuaded the air force to keep her in service as a test bed for structural, mechanical, electrical and power-plant crews. They say she's more than paid for herself in testing improvements that went into her flying sisters.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Although the Ulster County Fair came during the Democratic convention still it brought out a tremendous crowd. The weather as usual was beautiful both days. The parking facilities were the best ever, due to part of the exhibits being at the Stadium where you could park within several feet of many of the 4-H exhibits.

What impressed me most at the Stadium exhibits was the Muscovy mama duck and her many children, the little tots were delighted with them and wanted to know all about them. They were in a cage and the tots asked many questions that were serious to them but funny to grown ups. I was just thinking if the background of that cage was built like a big shoe so that they would represent the famous children's story of "The woman who lived in a shoe and had so many children." I would like to see more baby farm animals, and if they could be against a colorful background of storyland, like a baby lamb representing Mary and her little lamb. I am sure the 4-H groups have many such adorable real live animals and with their ability for craft work could represent a whole animal baby-land show, perhaps even charge a small admission to pay for the background material. This is just a thought. I have seen many of the Ulster county exhibits but to me the 1956 seems the biggest and the best, so much room to walk around in and park the car.

I also wish all those wonderful cooks would sell more of their homemade foods during the two day show. We did buy some delicious cookies, but what about cake and candy, that are not made for exhibit purposes but just farm fresh from good old-fashioned kitchens. Commercial foods are fine in its place but at a county fair that is one place you have a desire for the real old-fashioned home-grown, home-baked, home-made foods. I remember when my father, who was a county fair enthusiast and used to take me to the Dutchess county fair for years and years we also ate at a church pavilion there, all food home-made and good served by nice ladies. We could sit at chairs and tables, service real home-like and prices reasonable. A hot meal prepared right, even on a hot day is good, with a good cup of tea or coffee and finished off with a fancy home-made dessert.

I did not see the final dog show at the fair, but I did see it at Cornell Park and was surprised how well all the various breeds of dogs conducted themselves. They were not with their owners, most of them, but with neighbor children as I noticed. Although at Cornell Park, during the serious part of the judging, a tiny grey and white kitten stole the show, no wonder famous actors often refuse to go on the screen with a pet, they are spot light stealers.

There's a better way to make your wish come true!

The "wishing well" plays its romantic part in fable and fancy . . . but don't count on it for results in everyday life! Best way to make wishes come true is to DO something about them.

THE PARADE PASSES BY

In losing his battle to block Adlai Stevenson's bid for a rematch with President Eisenhower, former President Harry Truman gave the nation one of the most amazing exhibitions of his career.

First he shed his neutrality as a party elder statesman to declare for Averell Harriman's candidacy. Then, standing within the shadow of Stevenson's sure nomination, he vigorously attacked the winner as too conservative and incapable of carrying the election.

The force of this assault suggests, despite Mr. Truman's disclaimers, that he was motivated partly by personal pique. But undoubtedly he was sincerely convinced that only a man of Harriman's stripe could beat President Eisenhower.

The vast majority of the delegates gathered at Chicago chose to reject his counsel. In fact, it was evident before he spoke that they would do so.

Where this leaves Mr. Truman's prestige and standing in the Democratic party only time will demonstrate.

The professionals who put Stevenson across are not too likely to turn to Mr. Truman for future advice. As they see it, Mr. Truman sought to take control of the party for himself and his followers and to re-stamp his own imprint upon it.

In the view of many, he did this at the risk of hurting Stevenson's prospects in the fall campaign. He indicted the Illinoisan for "lack of fighting spirit" and implied that, unlike Harriman, he would not be fit to assume the presidency without a dangerous interim of job-learning.

Thereby Mr. Truman gave the Republicans ammunition they are sure to use this fall. They can cite his forceful testimony to charge that the Democrats at Chicago chose second best.

Obviously it is not Mr. Truman's nature to remain gracefully on the sidelines. When he boarded the train at Kansas City, his fighting intervention in events at Chicago was assured.

Most would agree he made the convention scene a more exciting and amusing place than it otherwise would have been. But he also contributed an element of sadness.

For his dogged insistence on trying to put the party back into the mold he gave it contrasted strongly with the humility of the old Harry Truman. The times and the Democratic party have moved on, but he has not.

The sad part was that he thought the wise course lay the other way. Inevitably, he was not heeded.

'ALL THIS POLITICS'

In the days ahead we will be exposed to a lot of talk about politics. Both major conventions will receive extensive coverage by newspapers, radio and television.

After one has heard the first million or so words of oratory, predictions and arguments, it is inevitable that one should become somewhat weary of the subject. Some listeners may even come to regard "all this politics" as tiresome and boring.

It is well to remember, however, that what we will be hearing and seeing will be tremendously important. There will be a lot of sham and foolishness. Yet even that is worthy of note because, unfortunately, it plays a part in our political system. If enough of us pay attention to it and express our displeasure at what we see, corrections may be made.

Next November we will be asked to decide who will be President of the United States. We can make that decision wisely only if we are aware of what the candidates and the parties stand for.

Now, when political news is happening, is a good time for us all to start learning everything we can. If listening to speeches and reading about politics gets to be a chore, we must realize that this business of governing ourselves can be hard work, but that the rewards we enjoy make it worthwhile.

THE NEGRO QUESTION

The fight over the so-called Civil Rights plank of the Democratic platform was lost by the Northern Liberals, but as Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois said, the problem must be faced because it faces us, and the Governor of Georgia proved the very next day: He might have called it the Negro Question, because the civil rights of no other element in our population are at issue. There are about 15,000,000 Negroes in the United States.

It is significant that the fight was led by Senator Herbert Lehman of New York, Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois and Governor "Soapy" Williams of Michigan. New York, Illinois and Michigan contain large and articulate Negro populations, who possess equal political and economic privileges. Should the Negroes of New York, Chicago and the Michigan automobile industries desert the Democrats whom they joined during the Presidency of Franklin D. Roosevelt, it would guarantee those states to the Republicans. Of course, at stake are not only the Presidency and the Vice Presidency, but members of both Houses of Congress. And from a local political standpoint, governorships, state legislatures and court houses are also at stake.

For instance, Senator Herbert Lehman, if he chooses to remain in the Senate, must run again in this election. So far, the Republicans have no candidate his match except Jacob Javits, the Attorney-General, who needs to clear up certain things before he can run, because the opposition to him is personal rather than partisan. However, if the New York Negro vote goes Republican, Lehman could be defeated because the Negroes, together with the Puerto Ricans, could exercise a balance of strength if they organized to do it, and voted as a bloc. And in New York, the Negroes have generally voted as a bloc.

I looked at the faces of Carmine DeSapio, Democratic leader of New York, Hulan Jack, Negro President of the Borough of Manhattan, and Mayor Robert Wagner of New York City, as they came over television from the convention floor. To them the Civil Rights plank was not a matter of unity in Chicago; it was a question of their future position in New York. And they knew what undoubtedly every Democratic leader knew no matter what he said that whereas the plank as finally passed may be the best that could be worked out by compromise, it would not satisfy the Negro leaders in the North who want no compromises because in the big Northern cities, they are too strong to need compromises. They can, in these cities, use their political power.

The Negro question may turn out to be the principal issue in the campaign. Otherwise there is no issue except Ike's health to which even the Democrats refer apologetically, and Dick Nixon's phrase, "The Party of Reason," which offends all Democrats who would not vote Republican. How, it is interesting that the only fight at the Democratic Convention was over the Civil Rights plank. And what was the fight over? It was really over whether the 1952 wording was stronger than the 1956 wording. Lehman, Douglas, and 14 members of the Platform Committee said that 1952 was stronger; Rayburn, McCormack and Truman said that 1956 was stronger.

It is also important to note that the New York delegation was defeated altogether at Chicago. New York wanted its Governor, Averell Harriman, as President. However, the Harriman campaign was directed by his personal friends and his secretaries, with Judge Sam Rosenman and George Backer, in charge. This left the Democratic leader, Carmine DeSapio, playing the double-bass fiddle instead of leading from the podium. Political deals can only be made by those who have something to trade. Also, the Mayor, Robert Wagner, had Vice Presidential aspirations but was swamped in the compromise over the Civil Rights plank. Senator Lehman was treated pretty shabbily when he was given two minutes to argue against the Platform Committee's report on Civil Rights and was barely able to finish his statement. So all-in-all, New Yorkers were very happy. And the Democratic candidate loses New York, he will lose 45 electoral votes, the largest unit in the country. New Yorkers have a way of showing it when they take umbrage, particularly when their immediate problem is how to hold the Negro vote in their state. (Copyright, 1956 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.
LUNG CANCER

The rate of increase in the number of cases of lung cancer has been very great in recent years. Some of this increase may be attributed to better methods of diagnosis (the art or the act of determining the nature of a disease), but I am afraid we cannot close our eyes to the fact that lung cancer is on the increase in both men and women, much greater, of course in men.

When we speak of a primary lung cancer, we mean a cancer that begins in the lung. There may, of course, be what are called secondaries where the primary cancer has spread to other parts of the body. Such a spread is commonly called, in medical terminology, a "metastasis."

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, the famous cancer research physician, Dr. Richard H. Overholt, and his associate, Dr. James A. Bougas, Boston, report on a group of patients with primary lung cancer who have been cured through surgery. "Five-year and ten-year survivors are being added constantly to the community of useful and grateful citizens. What are the factors that have saved the lives of these fortunate individuals? In a search for common denominators, we have studied the extent, character, and management of lung cancer in 51 cases with five-year survival." (Five year survival means that the patient has lived at least five years since the cancer was first discovered.)

To find these 51 patients with five-year survivals we must realize that a total of 845 patients were reviewed who had been seen between June, 1932, and October, 1950. Of the 51 who survived five years or more, all had resections—cutting away a section of an organ. It was found that age and sex had little bearing on curability. Ages at the time of treatment varied from 24 to 70 years among the five-year survivors and from 27 to 73 years among the patients who failed to live five years. There were six times as many men (86 per cent) as women (14 per cent) among the five-year survivors but this was the same ratio as that found among those who did not survive. As we mentioned above, cancer of the lung is much more common in men than in women.

How was the cancer first discovered? "Symptoms gave the alarm in 44 of the 51 five-year survivors. In seven cases (14 per cent) the cancer alarm came from the discovery of an abnormal shadow on survey X-rays. Cough, hemoptysis (spitting of blood), chest pain and symptoms suggesting persistent or recurring infections of the nose and throat were the most common first signs. Prior to diagnosis and resection, these symptoms were present in all but five of the 51 patients. Thirteen patients developed weight loss, loss of appetite, malaise (a general feeling of illness, sometimes accompanied by restlessness and discomfort), or fatigue before a diagnosis of cancer was made. Of the seven patients with survey-discovered cancer (general X-ray examination of lungs), four delayed seeking treatment until symptoms appeared."

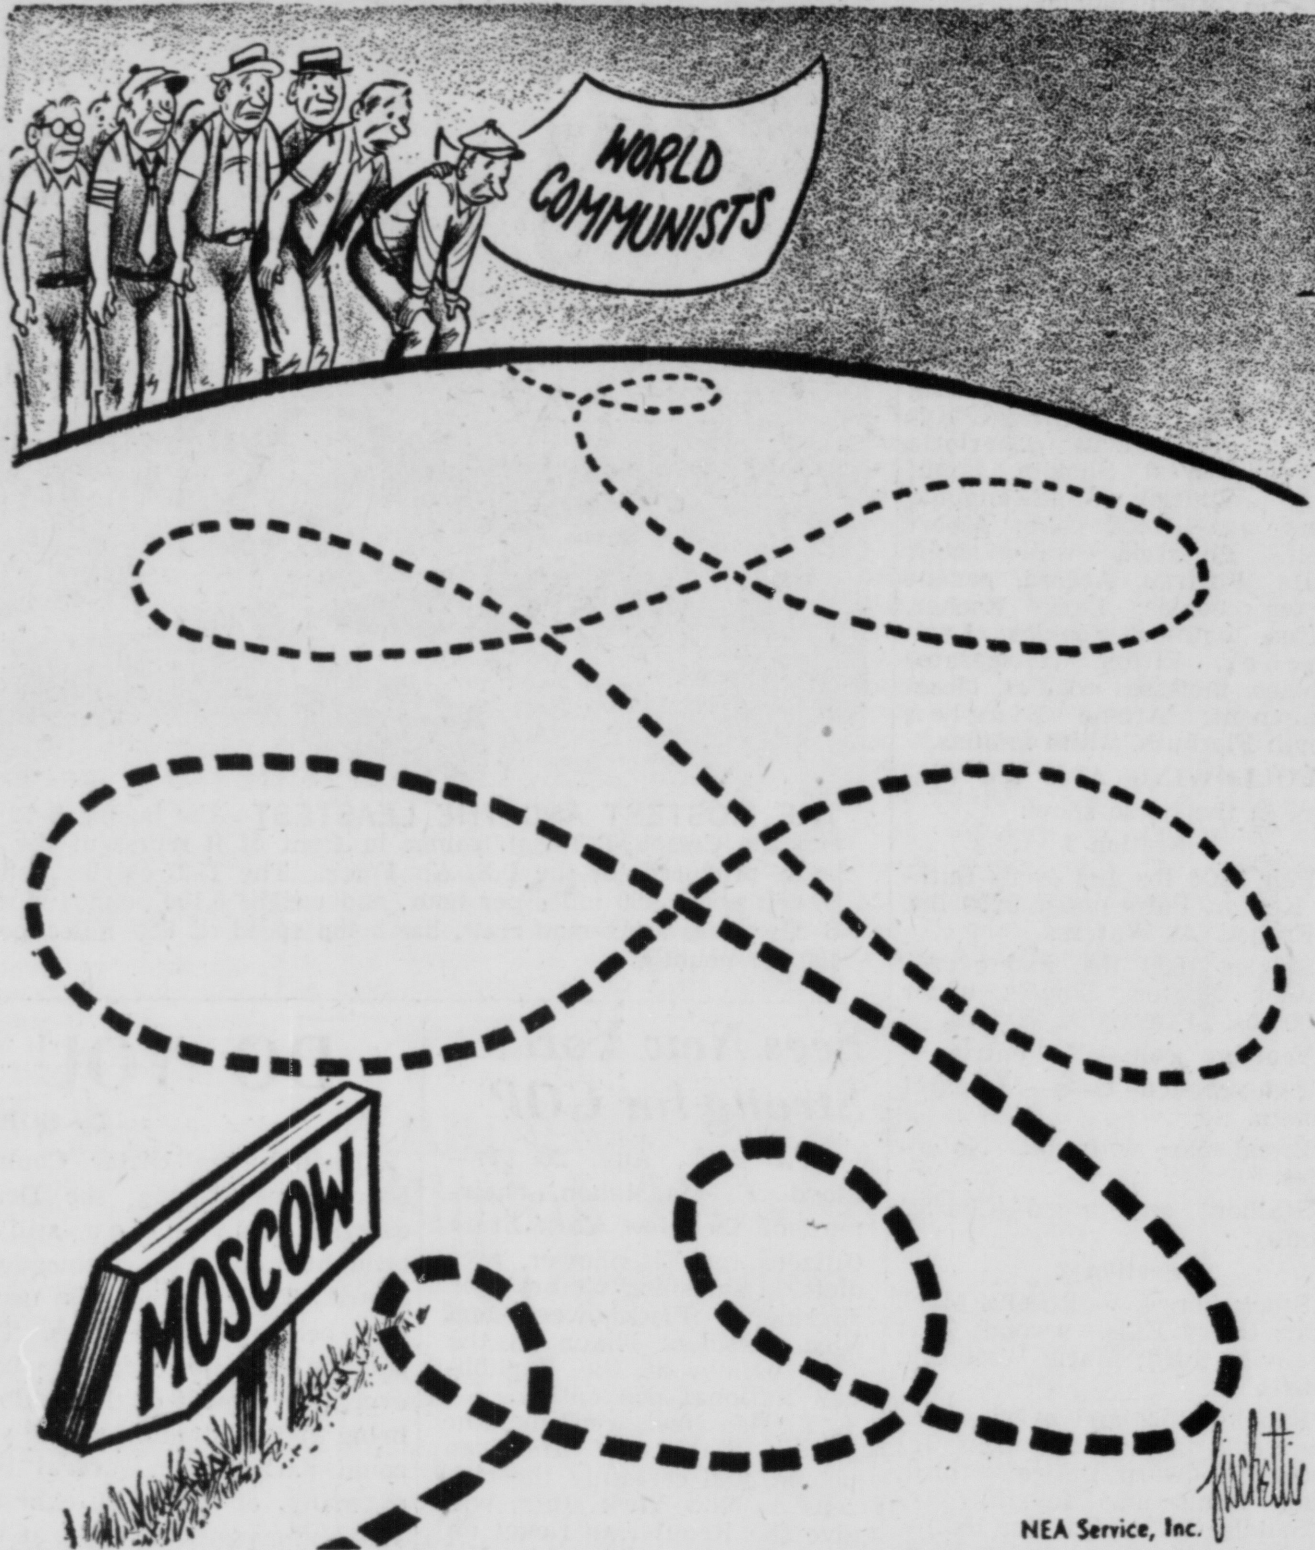

As lung cancer is on the increase, we will discuss this subject in a little more detail tomorrow.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Chicago—(NEA)—Streamlined phooey. If the Republican convention at San Francisco doesn't produce a better show than the Democratic business in Chicago, maybe the whole thing ought to be abandoned.

This Democratic convention was supposed to have never a dull moment. It didn't. In Harry Truman's greater combined downtown shows. But out at the stockyards, it was pretty banal and boring. The five-day program could have been cut to two without hurting a thing.

The Republican show is scheduled for four days. But from the advance notices, it could all be done in a quiet evening.

These political conventions aren't run for the delegates, anyway. They are run for TV audiences.

BUT NOT EVEN Cecil B. DeMille could stage-manage a spectacular that would hold an audience as long as these political conventions are drawn out.

The second day's proceedings at Chicago produced the all-time low. That was when they had Ladies' Day matinee and half a dozen speeches at night. Only Speaker Sam Rayburn's was worth listening to.

The women's program played to an almost empty convention hall. But it was rated a TV success because it appealed to women voters as they did their Tuesday ironing at home.

Then there was that horrible Wednesday night five-and-a-half hour performance. The first two and a half hours were devoted to an interminable concert from an invisible band and an unmusical address from Oklahoma's Bob Kerr. He didn't captivate the audience but they were held captive nevertheless.

THE CONVENTION BOSSES wanted to hold off consideration of the controversial civil rights platform until everybody was good and tired. That was the delegates would be more submissive to rubber-stamping the proceedings so they could go back to their hotels and bed.

Most of the audience had already done that. The galleries were practically empty when Chairman John McCormack brought up the civil rights plank at 12:45 a. m. Most of the TV audience had probably turned in too, except maybe the west coast. So it was an entertainment turkey.

Why do politicians persist in doing these things to people? And why does the public stand for it?

But the delegates, bless 'em, had stuck it out gamely. They were all there for the last half-hour of real drama which ended with the vote at 1:40 a. m.

During the two-and-a-half hour reading of the platform and during most of the speeches, few people paid the slightest attention to what was being beaten into their ears over the loudspeakers. Background noise was terrific. It was utter confusion and complete frustration.

CHICAGO BOSS Jake Arvey, scheduled for a speech on opening day, was the only man in the whole place who sized up the situation correctly. He walked up to the rostrum, smiled, waved his arm, decided, "What's the use?" and walked away without saying a word.

In the whole week, the Democrats discovered only two ways to make 11,000 people shut up. One was to show 'em a movie with sound track—Sen. Jack Kennedy's documentary on Democratic history.

The second was to employ an orator who could make more noise than 5,300 delegates and alternates plus 5,700 spectators and a brass band, and let him shout them. That was what keynoter Gov. Frank Clement did. If this prevented him from ever being nominated for president, it did the most to save the country.

'Open' Vote for Kefauver Called a Contrived Result

ENROUTE FROM CHICAGO TO SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20

—The inside story of what really occurred at the Democratic national convention in selecting a vice-presidential nominee bears little resemblance to what the American people were led to believe happened.

For one thing, it was not by any means a precedent-breaking method. For the same kind of contest for the vice-presidency took place at the Democratic national convention in Chicago only twelve years ago, when Henry Wallace almost went over the top and Truman came from behind with the private blessing of F.D.R. and the big-city bosses to dump the then vice-president.

Just as Franklin Roosevelt played it coyly at that time and pretended publicly to be leaving it to an "open" convention, so did Adlai Stevenson do the same thing last week. In 1944 Truman, Wallace and Justice Douglas all were supposed to be satisfactory to F.D.R. as vice-presidential nominees, but behind the scenes, the skillful work of the late Robert Hannegan of Missouri, national chairman — with the knowledge and consent of President Roosevelt — did the trick, and Wallace was sidetracked for Truman, friend of Hannegan.

THIS TIME Adlai Stevenson was confronted with a different dilemma. For many years to come the stories will be told in political circles of how he hesitated to make a decision between his possible selections and finally turned to the scheme of a so-called "open" convention to get himself off the hook. It was a clever device that helped him to extricate himself from a jam, but it left scars and wounds.

It naturally will be contended by some defenders of Stevenson that he didn't dictate the selection of Kefauver and that the convention did it in what Stevenson himself described as a "photo finish." But the strange story of that first ballot is that the careful planning of the Stevenson managers to get Kefauver nominated in a seemingly spontaneous way almost came a cropper because of the manner in which the Southern delegations ganged up on Kefauver and supported Sen. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

TO UNDERSTAND what happened, it is necessary to relate that Stevenson himself, after being nominated, sat down late Thursday night with prominent leaders singly and, while endeavoring to avoid a positive selection, did nevertheless say enough negatively about the political weaknesses of nearly every man proposed as to leave no doubt that he wanted Kefauver named.

Stevenson knew that Sen. Kennedy—whose father, Joseph P. Kennedy, is a multimillionaire and a good contributor to the campaign funds of the Democrats—had been making for several months a vigorous and intensive canvass throughout the Democratic organizations of the country in the hope of landing the vice presidential nomination. It was the only organized effort of consequence for the vice presidential nomination. There were many stories widely circulated in behalf of Kennedy about how important it is for the Democratic party to the north to win back some of the Roman Catholic vote it supposedly lost in 1952. Since Kennedy is a Catholic, his backers used that argument to offset any claim about a possible defection in the south if he were named.

If Stevenson had turned thumbs down on Kennedy and had openly favored Kefauver, he would have antagonized the Kennedy followers and also the supporters of Mayor Wagner of New York, another Catholic. While Stevenson said he had not made any commitments to Kefauver, nevertheless the Tennessee Senator did withdraw in his favor and a few weeks ago gave a big bloc of votes to the former Illinois Governor to help assure his nomination. So it was a tough pill to ask Kefauver's managers to swallow when they were told they must seek the Vice-Presidential nomination in an "open" convention.

BUT IT WAS the only way out for Stevenson, especially since this time, as always, the big delegations watched for a hint or nod from the managers who knew that the man who won the Presidential nomination had definite ideas about what strength a running mate could bring to the ticket. For Kefauver had campaigned in many states and has an already active and enthusiastic nucleus of supporters from New Hampshire to California. No other aspirant for the Vice-Presidential nomination on the Democratic side had such a nationwide strength, nor did any other, with the exception of Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota, stand so well with the farmers.

Kefauver, therefore was logical and, whether Stevenson admitted it publicly, he was under deep obligation to the Tennessee Senator. It was assumed that Kefauver would win anyway on the first ballot and that the Kennedy and Wagner forces at least would have a run for their money. As for Kennedy, he is only thirty-nine years old and is a comer in politics. He might even be the party nominee for the Presidency in 1960. He got a wonderful buildup for the race four years from now and should be happy.

THE REASON for Kennedy's big vote was the sudden switch in the South. It was actually a "stop-Kefauver" maneuver. The bitterness against Kefauver had deepened. Kefauver had deserted his Southern brethren on the segregation issue. To them this was unforgivable, and they said so. His own record of Tennessee would not endorse him as a favorite son on the first ballot.

By voting for Kennedy, the other Southern states accomplished two things — the not only showed their dislike of Kefauver but they showed the Democratic party that the Southern political leaders are not prejudiced against a Catholic. Incidentally, when Al Smith, a Catholic, was named for the Presidency in 1928 on the first ballot — before it was made unanimous—he had almost all of Louisiana's votes and some strength in the other Southern delegations, but not as much as Kennedy got this time.

HOW WAS THE message—to get behind Kefauver—conveyed to the big bosses who swung in line for him at the opportune moment? This is an invisible phase of American politics. The word was passed down—as it always is. The tip-off came in the Illinois and Pennsylvania delegations, which on the second ballot withdrew some of the Kennedy votes and did what they felt Stevenson wanted done. It was an interesting spectacle but a contrived result. It was Adlai Stevenson's influence and the maneuvers of his own managers which brought the vice-presidential nomination to Estes Kefauver. That's the inside story. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago, Aug. 17—The Democrats have been fawning upon the Common Man ever since 1932, but no other group of political mountebanks in our history has included as many millionaires as the bawling fakery who berated the Republicans for greed and inflation in the Democratic election of 1956.

Dwight Eisenhower is shored up against want for as long as he may live and Mamie may contemplate a twilight of economic security should she outlast him, as most wives do these days. But it seems doubtful that he could add his total worth up to a million, including his insurance equity, for his only known tap on top of his army pay was the tax-free profit on his book.

Charles Wilson is a magnate, or tycoon, of big business, a breed of fat cats who get most of their wealth by their own legitimate efforts and pay high for legal tricks to retain a substantial portion. One of Wilson's colleagues who retired a few years ago after leading in the creation of an enormous company which produced tanks, big guns and engines for planes and boats during the war, got more than $300,000 a year toward the end. But part of his income was taxed at 90 per cent and he carries on after retirement as an "adviser" to augment his pension.

By comparison with Averell Harriman, who was Harry Truman's candidate for the po' folks' vote, such men are piteous paupers keeping the wolf from the door by beating the dispan with the poker.

Harriman is one of the heirs to a fortune of about $100,000,000. There are opinions of the character and ethics of his father, the late E. H. Harriman, which disagree violently with the legend that he was a benevolent giant. In the long run, like Rockefeller, he conferred benefits on the United States, but he got his while he was at it, and philanthropy was not uppermost in his motives. He built railroads and salvaged for his great profit and Averell's, other lines which pioneers of the wild frontier had pushed as far as they could.

The faceless individuals who did the strong-back work in most of the western reaches of this empire were Irish greenhorns pushing westward, and Chinese pigtail coolies pushing eastward. There was violent debate between two schools of thought in those days whether it was a felony or a misdemeanor to kill a Chinaman, except in robbery.

Perle Mesta's vulgar extravagance as a "social" celebrity of her time in Washington is a phenomenon of the Democratic society which, in the years between 1933 and 1952, obliterated the manners and decorum derived from the Victorian period. Truman is Perle's social sponsor.

Jack Kennedy gave Estes Kefauver a hard chase for the vice presidential nomination. His father is a multimillionaire, Joe Kennedy, an urban peasant of Irish ancestry who went to Harvard and qualified for a leading position in the political life and commerce of his time.

Joe was Roosevelt's ambassador in London early in the war and came home vowing that he would stake his fortune and his sacred honor on a fight to defeat lend-lease and keep the United States out of it. He broke off that fight abruptly and his family suffered tragedies in the war. Jack was shipwrecked in the South Pacific and became a famous hero.

The Kennedys owe nobody any apologies, but the family wealth is a colossal embarrassment to the political pretense of the leaders that theirs is the party of the common man, sharing the poverty and the sorrows of the poor.

Senator Kerr, of Oklahoma, is one of the richest men of the Texas-Oklahoma cult of parvenus. Senator Lehman, of New York, is rich beyond calculation; Mennen Williams, of Michigan, who was willing to hold still for the lightning but scared even the radical fakery with his intemperately attitude toward wealth, is the most in his motives. He built soap. Adlai Stevenson has been a dilettant all his life, not rich but comfortably "independent," with no need to soil his hands in toil.

The Roosevelt tribe had money of their own, much of it earned in the opium trade by force of arms against the humane protests of the Chinese Emperor who tried to break his wretched people of the curse of addiction. After Franklin D. moved into the White House, the whole gang, with the apparent exception of Johnny, the youngest son, plunged into the trough and wallowed in money. Much of it clearly was loot as in the case of Elliott's loans. Without access to their tax returns, which, unlike others, are inviolate, it is impossible to calculate their gross, but clearly they collected among them at least $5,000,000.

siderable but indefinite amount. Truman, himself, got the advantage of a strange treasury ruling excluding from taxable income revenue derived from memoirs. Eisenhower had received this favorable interpretation of the law when his narrative, and alibi, came out and there was loud but futile protest from professional authors who in many cases pay confiscatory taxes on single works which ring the bell in one or two years but represent a decade or more of work.

Truman's royalties were excused from the tax and so was his phony expense account voted by Congress, a total of $200,000 for his second term. He was the least extravagant of Presidents with the possible exception of Calvin Coolidge so the odds are that he never dug into the allowance of $50,000 a year which by special intention of Congress was not to be accounted for. Altogether, Truman, with a fortune well above a half a million, is only a distant neighbor of the common man and knows him only as the fellow across the tracks.

Farm Situation Not Disastrous, Cornell Dean Says

Ithaca, Aug. 20 (AP)—The chairman of Agriculture Secretary Benson's national advisory committee said today that "professional sympathizers" were increasing farmer discontent.

Dean W. I. Myers of the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University said a price-cost squeeze in which farmers were caught was "severe but not disastrous."

HIS COMMENTS were in a speech prepared for delivery at an on-campus agriculture seminar held by 75 New York state bankers.

The dean said that from 1948 to 1955 farm operators' income had dropped 23 per cent—to an average $2,336—and factory wages had risen 34 per cent—to an average $3,979.

Myers said farmers hardest hit were "marginal operators" and those with heavy debt.

He told the bankers: "Farmers are not happy, and discontent has been increased by the overpessimism of professional sympathizers."

He did not further describe the "sympathizers."

Myers said a decline in prices of farm products has ended and prices of industrial raw materials were "strong." He added:

"In view of all the factors, the outlook for the national economy justifies an attitude of conservative watchful optimism."

HE SAID THE outlook was not encouraging for producers of cotton, wheat, tobacco and rice, but the outlook for producers of other crops was "moderately favorable" because of low government holdings and high demand.

The dean said of New York state agriculture:

1. Unfavorable factors included prospective increases in machinery prices as a result of a higher post-strike wages in the steel industry, plus higher feed costs as a result of increased federal support prices for grains.

2. "Substantial progress" has been reported in balancing supply and demand of dairy products.

Peoria, Ill. (P)—Mrs. Arlene C. Barker, 37, dodged traffic and gas pumps expertly as she attempted first, to halt the out-of-control, brakeless car she was driving in a station, and that failing, swerved back across the street into a fire house. When firemen, who had fled to safety, investigated the head-on crash, they found damage not too bad. Mrs. Barker and her two children escaped injury and her car was driveable, but the pumper truck had a crushed bumper.

Obscuring the Cast
By FRANK TRIPP

Of course, if TV somehow annoys us, we don't have to look at it. But then we wouldn't be in a position to complain about it and would be complaining about something else. Which would be too bad.

When we go to the few theaters where live people still entertain us, the first thing we get is a program. It contains the cast of characters; also the advertisements, which is no way upset our evening.

But this is not to be a gripe about TV commercials which, loud and brash as they can be, sometimes are a pleasant relief from the screen antics which they interrupt.

This effusion is to wonder why, not always but too often, TV makes such a secret of who it is that we are watching, and so much fuss about the top brass and who furnished the nylons, the lipstick and the props.

IT COULDN'T BE that I'm the sole survivor of an extinct type of audience that had a human interest in performers, and got joy out of the good work of others than the stars.

We wanted to know the names of those we were watching, before the end of the show. We kept our programs in our laps and referred to them frequently as the show progressed.

We became acquainted with names that went places. We had a part in creating stars. We watched them grow from the local stock company to road shows; some into starlets, then real stars. We went to see them on Broadway and boasted that "we knew them when."

WE REALLY DID know them. Because we saw them grow to stage fame. The same way that baseball fans know their idols' progress from the sandlots to the majors.

Why, the knothole gang knows better whom they are watching on the diamond than the TV audience knows the cast it is seeing on the screen. Imagine a baseball fan who could name only the pitcher in a game that he was watching.

I really am serious about the injustice of the obscurity in which so many fine performers are compelled to anonymously earn their living and are deprived of deserved recognition on TV.

The stars are ballyhooed like Jumbo and Jenny Lind; the rest of the troupe almost ignored.

WE WATCH a performance and admire the work of a half dozen in supporting roles. We wonder who they are. We have seen them many times, for the networks are like the hometown stock companies. Actors are moved from role to role until the viewers know their faces, but too seldom their names.

At the end of the picture, after it's all out and over, the names of the cast spin by so fast that an actor's own mother couldn't find him in the list.

The time is taken up telling who strung the beads and let out the cat; who furnished everything. Like when I was a property man and could borrow anything, up to a locomotive if we'd give the railroad credit in the program.

AS A LONG-TIME press agent, I learned the wisdom of boosting the whole cast, not alone the star. It made the corners proud, got better work, developed talent. We frequently found supporters better liked than the stars.

Human nature hasn't changed. People still want to know whom they are watching. There should be time on TV to project the cast of characters distinctly and slowly, both at the beginning and at the end of a picture. Viewers can survive without the boring credits that devour the time.

That would partially replace those prized theater programs that we have saved; more to remember whom we saw than what we saw.

HEALTH FOR ALL

MASTERS OF THE FUTURE?

These are the days when science fiction takes on the look of truth. The ghastly tales in which insects take over the world seem only too possible. The creeping, crawling, flying population must be reckoned with.

The children come home from camp looking like smallpox cases. Backyard barbecues built at great expense are abandoned to the chiggers. Thin lines of ants parade boldly over the front-door sill. The night is horrid with the shriek of dive-bombing mosquitoes.

Will the boasted intelligence of man break down under this onslaught? Sometimes it seems that the outcome of the battle will be close. Fortunately, our scientists are meeting the challenge with new and better insecticides each year. But resistant strains of insects seem to appear for each new spray. What's more, the chemicals are sometimes dangerous to man himself, and to the domestic animals on which he depends for life.

While the scientific battle against the insect world goes on, what can the average civilian do to protect himself?

Good screens and scrupulous cleanliness will, at least, keep insects outside where they belong. Repair breaks in screens at once. Mosquito commandos can spy out the slightest break and bring up an attack force in almost no time. Careful kitchen policing will discourage enemy fifth columns. Insecticide "bombs" containing pyrethrum and DDT are powerful offensive weapons, but must be used with caution to avoid harming human beings and pets.

Despite all precautions, insect attacks are frequently successful. Fortunately, the bites are rarely dangerous, merely uncomfortable. Now that malaria and yellow fever are under control, the greatest danger lies in scratching where it itches. This can lead to infection and possible blood poisoning. Keep the skin clean, apply calamine lotion, Epsom salts, or a wet paste of equal parts of baking soda and water. This treatment will soothe the sting and the bites should disappear shortly.

It isn't really necessary to spend the summer in an air raid shelter. Man's courage and ingenuity should win this war.

Tomorrow
Shell Oil Company will introduce a totally new grade of gasoline

The most powerful gasoline
the most powerful cars can use

This gasoline is Super Shell, the successor to Shell Premium Gasoline. It is an entirely new grade of gasoline made to meet the critical power needs of today's most modern high-compression engines.

In the last 5 years, automobile horsepowers have soared, with the result that motorists can enjoy performance undreamed of before.

But this progress has created its problems.

Whereas earlier model cars delivered their finest performance on premium grade gasolines, many of today's most recent models can no longer do so. Their higher compression ratios is a major reason.

And with the prospect of still more powerful cars for 1957 and the years ahead, a more powerful gasoline, one that was higher than high test, had to be made.

That is why Shell now brings you the most powerful gasoline the most powerful cars can use—Super Shell with TCP*.

Super Shell will be available at your Shell Dealer's tomorrow.

What can Super Shell do for you? If you own one of the highest compression 1956 cars, Super Shell with TCP can give your car all the power it was built to deliver.

If you have been using a premium grade gasoline, you can expect better performance with Super Shell than you've ever known before.

And Super Shell with TCP will also give you smoother, quieter power with anti-knock protection over your entire speed range—from low throttle to full throttle.

Frankly, if your car performs well on a regular grade gasoline, you do not need Super Shell. You will get excellent results from Shell Gasoline, regular grade.

Even the pump is new. When you drive into your local Shell station, you'll find Super Shell with TCP in a new white pump. It's a bargain in quality, a bargain in price. Super Shell is the most powerful gasoline the most powerful cars can use!

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

ANNOUNCING THEIR NEW HOME

"After ten years of living in apartments, we have finally bought our own house and we are very proud of it. I would like to send out announcements to our friends and relatives. Is such an announcement possible, and if so, how can it be worded? I had thought of having pictures made of the house and using these as announcements. What is your opinion of this?"

I think it would be a charming idea. Write: "We're at home here. Do come and see it and us soon."

Passing Busy Friends

Dear Mrs. Post: Isn't it better to pass friends by in a public place if they are busy occupied with other friends? This was our experience lately. However, as it turned out, they saw us and questioned my husband for not having joined them. Will you please tell me what is proper in this situation?

Answer: Under most circumstances, we do not join those whom we know when they are talking with those whom we don't, and you were quite right in passing them by unless they see you and smile.

The Use of Junior

Dear Mrs. Post: My wife and I are expecting a baby and should like to name him (if it is a boy) after my father. I had a brother who died several years ago who was named for my father, and was, of course, junior. I would like to know if our son will be junior or third? Answer: Since your brother

The Mature Parent

Exaggerations Reflect Adolescents' Tensions

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

"Her voice was ever soft, gentle and low; an excellent thing in woman," wrote William Shakespeare.

In a mild way you've always taken pride in the modulation of your voice. Even in motherhood's maddest moments, it has not exploded into those ear-splitting warnings you've heard mothers shriek at their children.

The day Billy bit your finger for removing stolen chocolates from his mouth, your "Ouch!" was less shrill than astonished. Certainly you've raised your voice to the children. The thing is, you've never made it into a blast of yelps and screams.

So it is with shock that you overhear your teen-ager describing your request to subdue the volume on her phonograph. At the hall telephone, she's telling a friend, "...so I'll bring my new Elvis Presley record over to your house and play it on your machine. No, she won't say why she can't stand him. She just screams at me every time I play him, that's all. Absolutely shrieks..."

What you have said to your daughter with what you hope was Mr. Shakespeare's excellent modulation was, "Penny, if you've got to listen to that record again and again, please do it in your room."

So Penny has not called your utterance "screams" and "shrieks" because these descriptions are accurate.

Why, then, has she used them? Well, to people of Penny's age, parents often seem to be "screaming" or "hollering" when we're doing nothing of the kind. Into these exaggerated terms, Penny puts both her passionate longing to be free of us—and her fear of this freedom. The word's violence reflects the tension between these two pulls in her. And so it is a great relief to her. They enable her to shove us away in safe talk instead of action she isn't ready for—and identify herself with people of her own age.

If we understand the insecurity behind this kind of accusing exaggeration we treat it compassionately.

Lawrence and Mary Frank write of it helpfully in their new book "Your Adolescent at Home and in School." "The young adolescent is unpracticed at being a person in his own right. The familiar self-image that has been built up over the childhood years is now shattered. It is this shattering which makes him unsteady and unsure. With backtalk, contradictions, irritability and sarcasm, he expresses his desire to be less helpless than he feels just as adults may become hostile when they feel unrecognized or inadequate."

Other homes are located within 200 feet of the Fellerman place, Cpl. Shannon said. An exceptionally fine box in which Mr. Fellerman kept his ivory Mah-Jong set was smashed viciously and obscenities scrawled on mirrors throughout the house. Yonkers Defeats Trenton, 3-2, to Capture Region II Title

Fischer Pitches One-Hit Victory In Legion Final

Yonkers captured the Region II playoffs of the American Legion Junior baseball tournament as highly-regarded right-hander Hank Fischer set down Trenton, 3-2, with a one-hitter Saturday at Dietz Stadium.

Yonkers, which played under the banner of Bodenstab-Thomas Post 884, will represent Region II at Togus, Me., Aug. 24-28 against Region 1 and II in a section tournament. Out of this will come the eastern seaboard's representative among four teams meeting in Legion finals at Bismarck, N. D., Sept. 2-6.

FISCHER WAS easily the standout in the Yonkers success. The estimated throng of 400 which included 11 major league scouts, sat pop-eyed as the strong-armed young man put on a dazzling display of pitching prowess and lived up to all his advance ballyhoo.

Fischer had a no-hitter working for 8½ innings and was the complete master of the New Jersey titlists. Then after a walk, Fischer delivered his only bad pitch of the game and Ralph Locardo whacked it for a tremendous home run into the parking lot behind left field to round out the game's scoring.

Mickey Pasquito, also a righty, dueling Fischer brilliantly, scattering eight hits very well. An unearned run in the second inning proved to be the difference though.

After Bob Pearson's leadoff single, right fielder Jerry Golembeski dropped Ron Kubilus' easy fly ball with two outs and Yonkers had what proved to be the winning margin.

The metropolitan team, which defeated the Kingston Post on their way to the state title, upped the count to 2-0 in the sixth on successive singles by Dom DiChiara, Pearson and Dick Limestone. In the ninth, Kubilus' double followed by a hit and a ground out completed the Yonkers scoring.

Fischer struck out 11 and walked seven and was aided by two snappy double plays. Both came in crucial spots and helped him out of serious jams. Trenton loaded the bases in the seventh frame, but Charlie Columbar, a pinch hitter, rapped into a twin killing to end the most serious threat for the Jerseyans.

PASQUITO FANNED seven and walked three. Only in the third stanza did he set Yonkers down in order. Yonkers stranded eight and Trenton one less.

Yonkers defeated Stamford, Conn. 16-6 and Trenton downed Cranston, R. I., 8-3, in semi-final play in the afternoon.

DiChiara's bases-loaded home run got Yonkers off winging at the outset and it never was caught. Romeo Fields, who beat Kingston in the semi-finals, pitched a seven-hitter.

Locardo slammed a home run with two aboard in the opening inning to spark his team over the Rhode Islanders. Golembeski coasted to an easy win from there.

RAIN HELD UP the Yonkers-Stanford game for approximately 15 minutes and caused delay of the start of the title clash. It began 45 minutes late (9:15) and was played almost entirely in a heavy fog which blanketed most of the outfield.

The Ford Motor Company plaque, symbolic of Region II title, was presented to Yonkers after the game by George Shivery, local Ford dealer.

A large delegation of visiting dignitaries attended the tourney which started at 1 p. m. and finished about midnight. Heading the group was Martin McKenney, State Commander, of Newburgh.

Wilma Burke Gains Triple Crown in Swimming Meet

Also Gets 2nd Place Tie; Weekly Wins in "100"

A 14-year-old girl, who has had no formal training in swimming or diving, dominated the Elks Lodge's swim finals Sunday before a large crowd at Williams Lake.

Miss Wilma Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Burke of the Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine, captured three first places and tied for second in another. Her father is employed at IBM.

She won the 50-yard freestyle for girls 12 to 14 in 35.6 seconds, the 50-yard backstroke in 1 minute, 14.5 seconds and the Class B diving event for girls 12 to 14. In the 50-yard backstroke, she tied for second with Carol Seidel of Kingston, behind the winner, Myrna Gilman of Kerhonkson.

A brother, 13-year-old William Burke, captured the 50-yard breaststroke event in 1 minute, 15.4 seconds in a thrilling duel with Sonny Bunce of Kingston to round out a perfect afternoon for the Burke family.

Nick Morris, 10 years old, of Kingston was a double winner, taking the 25 yard freestyle for boys and girls in the 10-11 age bracket and the Class C diving event.

Spahn, Lemon Within Reach Of Select 200-Victory Club

BY ED WILKS

The Associated Press

Southpaw Warren Spahn, pitching for a pennant, and righthander Bob Lemon, the ace of a first-rate pitching staff that hasn't been able to fire a second-place club, today are within reach of the select 200-victory club in major league ball.

The stylish Spahn, coming through in the clutch, pitched Milwaukee back into a two-game lead in the National League race as the Braves defeated Cincinnati 3-1 yesterday. Lemon, who broke in as an infielder, used a five-hitter to get Cleveland started on a doubleheader sweep of the Kansas City Athletics, 5-2 and 2-1, and keep the Indians' meager flag hopes alive in the American League race.

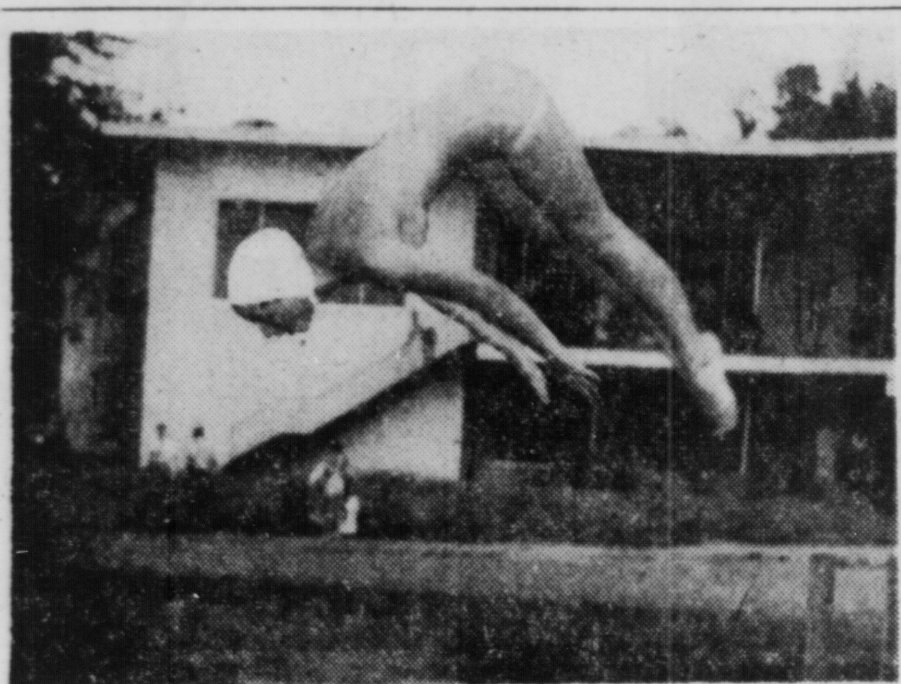

IT WAS THE 97th major league victory for each of the 35-year-old veterans.

There are only two active 200-game winners in the business today—and Cleveland has 'em both. Bobby Feller, without a victory this season, has a 266 total, and Early Wynn, with 14 this year, has 215.

Spahn's 14th victory of the year was the big one of the day, sending the Redlegs back to third place after winning the first two games of the important four-game series at Cincinnati. Brooklyn's Dodgers reclaimed the runnerup spot (by seven percentage points) with a 3-2 decision over Philadelphia.

Another veteran, Murry Dickson (who'll be 40 tomorrow) struck out nine and gave just two hits as the fourth-place St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-0 in a doubleheader split. The Cubs took the nightcap 3-1. The New York Giants, socking six home runs, took two from Pittsburgh, 7-6 and 3-2.

CLEVELAND'S sweep moved the Tribe to within 8½ games of first place New York as the two clubs get set for a two-game series in Yankee Stadium starting tomorrow night. The Yankees were trimmed 3-2 at Baltimore. The Chicago White Sox moved into third place, splitting with the Detroit Tigers while Washington was taking two from Boston. Chicago won 4-1 after an 11-inning 3-1 defeat; Boston slipped to fourth on 7-5 and 11-10 losses with the nightcap going 11 frames.

Hank Aaron's two-run homer in the eighth beat the Redlegs as Spahn kept eight hits—including Ted Kluszewski's 31st home run—fairly well scattered. Tom Akers, also giving up Ed Matthews' 27th home run, was the loser in relief of Joe Nuxhall. Danny O'Connell's line drive struck Nuxhall's left knee and sidelined the southpaw starter in the first inning.

A TWO-RUN pinch double by Charlie Neal in the ninth inning broke a 1-all duel between the Dodgers' Don Newcombe, who won his 19th, and the Phils' Curt Simmons, who had won seven in a row. Gil Hodges homered for the other Dodger run. It was his 25th.

Dickson, driving in two runs with three hits, retired 17 in a row before giving a pinch single to the Cubs' Monte Irvin. Don Kaiser was the loser. Stan Musial hit his 21st homer among the Cards' 14 hits.

Daryl Spencer hit two of the Giant homers and Willie Mays socked his 24th. An eighth-inning error enabled the winning run to score in the opener. In the afterpiece, Mays brought the clincher home in the sixth, walking, stealing second and scoring on an infield out.

CONNIE JOHNSON five-hit the Yankees and stuck out seven while blanking Mickey Vernon. The righthander also singled home the winning run in a three-run seventh against loser Johnny (16-7) Kucks.

Hec Lopez homered for a 2-1 lead against Lemon in the first game, but the Indians scored three in the fourth on five singles to beat Rookie Wally Puir.

A cynic once remarked that sentiment is the babble of the ignorant.

At the risk of getting measured for the ignoramus collar, we have to admit a strong tug of sentiment for the Pop Edson Day ceremonies Wednesday night at Dietz Stadium.

You have to feel sentimental about an 83-year-old man who can still get enthusiastic—and in a solid, realistic, helpful manner—about small fry baseball.

You have to admire and respect a man, who in his 75th year will throw a substantial portion of a modest savings account into a dying baseball empire.

Pop Edson laid $1,000 on the line in futile effort to prolong the life of a tottering baseball franchise. And at a crucial moment, when those who had given the most lip service could not be heard and those who had walked stridently past the grandstand could not be found.

Your heart goes out to a spry 83-year-old who once a day, sometimes twice, will climb three flights of stairs to bring in a news item about small fry baseball or basketball.

You have to go back into the pre-war period and the vibrant recreations to get the real Pop Edson story. He was part of a glorious baseball saga in his role as treasurer, ticket taker and guardian of ball chasers. You have to remember his long and lonely vigils at the stadium ticket booth when organized baseball fought desperately to hold off the inevitability of extinction. You have to remember the man who stood up and was counted when the chips were down.

You have to recall his untold and cleverly concealed acts of charity. You remember his lifelong devotion to kids, needy kids, unfortunate kids whose lives were made happier by the solicitude of an old man who never forgot his youth.

Harry Edson accumulated a pocketful of memories in his life-long association with sports. He lived a life of considerable substance and dignity and it is within the power of the sports fans and civic minded persons to give him a crowning success Wednesday night.

Anything less than a full house for the FYL-Brooklyn Dodger Rookie contest and the Pop Edson tribute would be tremendous disappointment. The city of Kingston owes this remarkable octogenarian enthusiastic and sincere tribute in recognition of what he has done for us and our children.

It is within your province to make Wednesday one of the truly great days in the life of Harry L. (Pop) Edson.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Best baseball jockey we've heard since the heyday of Hank Cragan is Len Whitten of Watzkas and Kingston Colonials. Whitten's repertoire is a throwback to the old days when jockeying was a highly refined baseball art. Larry Jansen, the old Giant comebacking with the Cincinnati Redlegs, says that if the hitters think slow stuff is all he has left, they'll be fooled. "The slider now is one of my best pitches," says Larry. "It was a big help in my first start against the Braves. I mix up my pitches. When he had to, he really poured it on the Braves," said umpire Jocko Conlon who worked Jansen's first game. "Maybe he doesn't throw real hard as much as he used to, but when he wants to he can fire the ball as good as he ever did."

Of Men and Mice:

Everybody is playing the "Will Mickey Beat The Babe" game these days. One interesting item to remember is that in 1927, when Ruth hit his record 60, he averaged a home run for every nine at bats—60 in 640 official trips in 151 games. Mantle's pace, 42 homers in his first 396 trips, averaged one hit in 9.4 at bats. Ruth had 43 after 127 Yankee games. But the Babe had a phenomenal run of 20 homers in his last 32 games. With the opening of Poughkeepsie's new high school on Sept. 10, the old North Hamilton street becomes a pleasant memory for the 1956-57 basketball season. Speaking of basketball, isn't it about time for the Autumn League?

One-Hitter

HL Brooks Rip Yanks

Dodgers upset the Yankees, 16-1, behind the 1-hit pitching of Paul Gruner, who struck out 10.

The winners collected 10 hits, all singles, and cracked the game wide open with a 10-run barrage in the first inning.

The setback jarred the first place standing of the Yankees, who now lead the second place Giants by 25 percentage points.

Gary Bessmer and Bob Guess shared the Yankee pitching chores.

Vince Crantz, Mike Morris and Clyde Rowe accounted for two singles each. Wally Smith's single saved the league leaders from the ignominy of a no-hitter.

6th Inning Homer

Beats Clark Mains

The Sauergeties Dutchmen dropped another tough road decision, this time a 3-2 loss to the Brooklyn Windsores, Sunday at the borough diamond.

A two-run homer by Bill Legas, Brooklyn shortstop, in the sixth inning decided the brilliant pitching duel between Clark Mains and Paul Starks of the Windsores.

Both pitchers allowed seven hits and all runs were earned in the New York-New Jersey League contest. Starks fanned 11. A perfect throw to the plate by outfielder Jim Kalis cut down Mains with the tying run.

RENNI Giannuzzi pitched two hitless innings (seventh-eighth) for the Dutchmen in relief of Mains and struck out two.

A home run over the left field fence by William "Boo" Schaffer gave Sauergeties a 2-0 lead in the third inning.

The visitors picked up a single marker in the second inning when Giannuzzi, who started in right field, led off with a walk. Jim Meadlock singled and Don McCaig sacrificed the runners to second and third. Iannone's sacrifice fly to deep left scored Giannuzzi.

Trailing 2-0, the Windsores cut the Dutchmen margin in half on Legas' double and a single by Nick Guareno.

Kalis set up Brooklyn's winning rally in the sixth with a single and Legas followed with a homer over the right field fence.

STARKS emerged unscathed from a tight spot in the eighth thanks to a fine throw by outfielder Kalis. Mains walked and Hubie Barber, Bill Goff singled in succession with two outs. Mains was out at the plate on a bang-bang play.

Schaffer, Barber and Meadlock each had two hits for the Dutchmen. Legas, with a double and the game winning homer and two runs scored, was Brooklyn's big gun.

Sauergeties plays at Jersey

City Saturday night and returns Cantine Field Sunday at 2:30 p. m. to meet the Bronx Mo-hawks.

Giants Acquire Max Surkont

New York, Aug. 20 (AP)—The New York Giants today purchased Max Surkont, veteran right-handed pitcher, from the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League. Surkont will report to the Giants in Milwaukee tonight.

The National Leaguers, suffering from a severe shortage of pitching strength due to recent injuries and ailments to Alan Worthington, Ruben Gomez and Jim Hearn, have three double headers scheduled this week.

The purchase of Surkont involved cash, plus two acceptable players who will be turned over to San Francisco next spring. The 34-year-old Surkont has a 4-5 record as a relief pitcher for the Seals this season. He formerly pitched for the St. Louis Cardinals, Boston and Milwaukee Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League and one season for the Chicago White Sox in the American.

Former Upsets

Ronnie Marks, 1 Up

After two shattering upsets in weekend semi-final action, Wiltwyck County Club members can choose between former champion, Roy Vogt, and Bill Costello in next week's 1956 championship finals.

Vogt eliminated defending champion, Ronnie Marks, 1 up, and Costello, the giant killer of the tournament, upended highly regarded Jerry Affron of Newburgh by the same margin.

IF VOGT'S triumph over Marks is not a major upset in the minds of many golf observers, Costello's upending of Affron has to rate as one of the most stunning reversals of form in Wiltwyck golf history.

The 36-hole finals will be played over two days, next Saturday and Sunday, with starting times to be announced later by Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr., the Wiltwyck tournament chairman.

THE TRIP to the finals will be the first for Costello. Vogt has been a finalist several times and last won the crown in 1946 when he defeated Dr. Holcomb, then playing out of The Twaalfskill Club, in the first city play-offs.

Finalists in the Second Flight will be Matt Dietzschmann, who downed J. Watson Bailey, 4 and 2; and Ernest Schirmer of Saugerties who eliminated Abe Streifer.

Triplets Hold Eastern Lead

(By The Associated Press)

There are 21 playing-days remaining in the Eastern League race and it may take all that time—and maybe a little more—to decide who'll wear the crown this year.

The Schenectady Blue Jays moved closer to the front-running Binghamton Triplets yesterday by defeating third-place Reading in a doubleheader, 4-3 and 3-1, in Schenectady.

Binghamton lost some ground as it fell before last-place Johnstown, 5-4, in Binghamton.

Albany won the first of a twin bill beating Allentown, 12-8, in Albany and the Redbirds salvaged the day with a 5-0 shut-out win in the nightcap.

Syracuse and Williamsport swapped shutouts in a two-game affair in Syracuse, the Chiefs winning the first, 5-0, and the Grays taking the second, 3-0.

Breen Sets New World Record in Four-Mile Swim

Alexandria Bay, Aug. 20 (AP)—George Breen of Buffalo and the U. S. Olympic team today holds a new swimming record — an hour, 32 minutes and 55 seconds in the National AAU four-mile race. The previous record was 1:35.12.

He finished the Lake of the Isle course yesterday about a quarter mile ahead of defending champ Frank Brunell of the Vesper Swim Club of Philadelphia, who was timed in 1:39.04.

Breen, a June graduate of Cortland State Teachers College, said it was the first time in two years he had competed in a four-mile race. He also holds the 1,500-meter record.

JERRY HOLTREY of the Huntington, Ind., YMCA team was third in 1:43.12.

In competition Saturday, Tom Bechtel, 16, of Birmingham, Mich., edged Mike Volk of New York City by one stroke to win the four-mile swim in the junior division. The winner's time was 1:46.1.

Volk, representing the Knickerbocker Swim Club of New York, was a tenth of a second slower. Joe Stetz, also of Knickerbocker, was third in 1:47.30.

The Huntington YMCA took the team championship for the third successive year, Knickerbocker Swim Club "A" team was second and the Knickerbocker "B" squad was third.

Breen swam as an individual representing the Buffalo Athletic Club.

Bechtel was a member of a team representing Camp Chikopipi in northern Ontario. The camp is operated by Matt Man, 2nd, swimming coach at the University of Michigan.

10-Year-Old Girl In '46ers' Group

Schenectady, Aug. 20 (AP)—At the age of 10, Monica Schaefer of Schenectady has climbed the 46 highest peaks in the Adirondacks.

Monica qualified for the exclusive "46ers" last Friday by climbing Mt. Hough in the Dix range in Essex county.

She started climbing when she was 5 by scrambling to the summit of Mt. Marcy, the Adirondacks' highest peak at 5,344 feet. All 45 others go about 4,000 feet.

Monica's mother, Mrs. Paul Schaefer, and her 20-year-old sister, Mary, also completed their goal of 46 with Monica. Another sister and a brother have climbed 43.

Father, who is a leader in conservation movements in the state, admits he trails badly. He has climbed only 20.

Juliana Won't Abdicate

The Hague, Netherlands, Aug. 20 (AP)—The government said again today that Queen Juliana will not abdicate because of the crisis reportedly caused by her association with a faith healer.

Dr. Gerrit Jan Lammers, government spokesman, announced a royal commission has completed its secret investigation of the crisis. He denied speculation that the queen would turn over the throne to her daughter, Crown Princess Beatrix, but declined to answer any other questions about the commission's report.

OFFICE CAT

Trade Mark Reg. By Junius

A college boy walked into a pet shop and looked into an immense tank full of fish. The proprietor came over and asked if he could help.

Young Man—Yes, I want that fish there.

He pointed to a beautifully colored specimen.

After considerable manipulating of the net the shop owner finally caught the fish.

Young Man—That's not the one, that one there.

Again the man had to do a lot of maneuvering to catch another fish.

Proprietor—Is that it? (finally netting the fish).

Proprietor—All right, sir, if you'll wait just a minute I'll put it in a container for you.

Young Man—Oh, don't bother. I'll swallow it here.

When the doctors came into the drawing room the specialist said:

Specialist—Well, of all the ugly-looking women I ever saw, that one's the worst.

Masked Robber Shot, Two Are Taken by Police

New York, Aug. 20 (AP)—Police killed one masked robber and captured two others in a blazing gun duel in a plush Park avenue restaurant last night. A police sergeant was wounded.

A parking lot attendant, who is an ex-patrolman, saw the robbers at work through a kitchen window of the Town and Country Restaurant at 290 Park Ave. He rushed to a phone and called police. They sped to the scene and burst in on the three men, all armed.

The last patron had left and the restaurant closed 50 minutes before the holdup attempt.

TWO MEN ROBBED the same restaurant of $3,700 last Easter Sunday.

Murray Friedlander, 43, cashier of the restaurant, told police three gunmen walked into his office last night and one demanded:

"Gimme the money, you, or I'll kill you."

Friedlander said he handed over a cash box containing about $200.

Two of the thugs lined up eight kitchen helpers and a hostess against a wall while the gang leader marched Friedlander to the manager's office upstairs. The robber ordered him to open the safe.

At about that time police Sgt. Howard Brunn and two patrolmen charged into the restaurant. Brunn was confronted by one of the robbers. Each ordered the other to drop his gun. Then the shooting started.

Patrolman Robert Culwell fatally wounded John Joseph Di Palermo, 24, (of 264 Elizabeth St.) during the fusillade. At least six shots were fired.

Brunn suffered a wound in his right arm.

WHEN THEY HEARD shots, the gang leader upstairs and the other gunman in the kitchen made an unsuccessful attempt to flee. They were identified as Joseph Benanti, 22, (of 106 1st Ave.) and Ralph Cuomo, 20, (of 27 Prince St.).

The two were booked on charges of assault and robbery and violation of the weapons law.

Abraham Yudenfeld, 50, (3154 Coney Island Ave.) Brooklyn, the parking lot attendant who tipped off police, retired from the force four years ago. He killed a robber in a gun duel in 1946 and was wounded in the leg.

Leave The Sink
Albuquerque, Aug. 20 (AP)—Thieves left the kitchen sink in a home owned by Mrs. William O'Sullivan, but not much else.

Police reported someone stole all the inside doors, furniture, hot water tank, cast iron porch railings, a $1,700 heating unit and built-in bathtub.

Washington Set As Stevenson's Main Headquarter
Chicago, Aug. 20 (AP)—Campaign headquarters for Adlai Stevenson's second bid for the White House—a far cry from what on top Democratic party official calls the "two-headed monster" arrangement of 1952.

In his losing effort for the presidency four years ago, Stevenson maintained campaign headquarters under two different men in Washington and Springfield, the Illinois state capital. Stevenson then was completing his term as governor.

UNDER THE NEW setup, said James A. Finnegan yesterday, "the campaign will be integrated in Washington headquarters." Finnegan, who guided Stevenson's successful bid for a second party nomination, will direct the former Illinois governor's 1956 presidential campaign.

Stevenson is expected to maintain a secondary personal headquarters in Chicago, with the major emphasis being placed on speech writing.

But Washington will be where campaign business will be transacted and decisions cleared, said Finnegan.

Paul M. Butler, re-elected national chairman Saturday with Stevenson's approval, echoed Finnegan's statement, remarking:

"There will be no problems of jurisdiction, no two-headed monster."

In 1952, Wilson Wyatt, Stevenson's campaign director, operated from Springfield while the then national chairman, Stephen A. Mitchell, directed campaign headquarters in Washington.

BUTLER'S REMARKS have been interpreted by party leaders to be an acknowledgment also that Finnegan will be the top man in the campaigns of Stevenson and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Butler and Stevenson spent some 40 minutes together Saturday in a conference preceding a meeting of the Democratic National Committee. A reliable source said the talk was highly charged and that both men "got things off their chest" and cleared the air.

Stevenson then appeared before the committee and asked that Butler be re-elected. It was done by acclamation. Earlier the committee with one dissenting vote, had passed a resolution that Butler not resign his post.

Butler had been pictured as determined to resign because of criticism of his handling of arrangements for the nominating convention.

South had no real problem in the play of today's hand. He could not make his contract, of course, but he was pleased to hold the loss to 300 points as a sacrifice against the enemy's sure game in spades.

South ruffed the second round of spades and returned a club. East won with the jack of clubs and led a trump. East won the next club and led a diamond to West's ace, after which West led a second trump.

Despite this excellent trump defense, South could still ruff two clubs in the dummy and thus hold the loss to one spade, one diamond, and two clubs.

East made his mistake when he doubled five hearts. This was obviously a sacrifice bid, and the hand clearly "belonged" to East and West. In this clear situation, East could pass instead of doubling, thus forcing West to take action of some kind.

The meaning of this "forcing pass" is: "Partner, we both know that we can double this contract if there is nothing better to do. If you have good material for your raise to two spades, go on to five spades. Otherwise, double five hearts. Above all, don't dream of passing; you must bid or double."

An expert West would bid five spades. At worst, he would double, and West would be no worse off than if he had doubled himself. In short, East could lose nothing and might gain considerably by using the forcing pass instead of the penalty double.

Seaway Area Has Big Potential, Business Told

Plattsburgh, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP)—The State Commerce Commissioner today urged business and industrial leaders to capitalize fully on the St. Lawrence seaway and power projects.

Edward T. Dickinson told a luncheon meeting of the economic education council of northern New York that, while these projects would boom business activity, they would "by no means exhaust the potential of the area."

"The seaway and power projects have focused national attention upon the north country as a growth area in New York state," Dickinson continued in his prepared speech. "We should not let this opportunity pass without exerting our full energies to attract new industries to the area."

Dickinson said one selling point for the area was that it was outside the zones designated by the federal government as most likely to fall under air attack in time of war.
